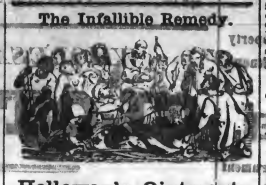
The Infallible Remedy.


Holloway's Ointment.
Contracted or Stiff Joints.
All the medicines in the London dispensaries would barely benefit, much less cure, any chronic case of contracted or stiff joints; whereas if this invaluable ointment be carefully rubbed into the parts twice a day, like balm, it will immediately relieve. Paralytic patients even can derive advantage from this ointment, which other means fail.
Scorbutic Humours—Scald Head and Skin Diseases.
Scorbutic humors arise from an impure state of the blood, and in most cases the liver and stomach are the organs at fault. The Pills will speedily restore these to a healthy action; while the Ointment if well rubbed in at least twice a day, will soon cure the most inveterate humours. Soldiers, sailors, and miners, use this famous Ointment by all parts of the world.
Disorders of the Kidneys, Stone and Gravel.
A trial of the above ointment will prove the benefit may be derived in twenty-four hours by adopting the following simple means that is frequently brought about in six months by any other treatment. In the cases if the Ointment be rubbed into the small of the back over the region of the kidneys, it will quickly penetrate, and, in most instances, give immediate relief. Six or eighty-four hours is the time in which it will generally effect a complete cure.
Diptheria, Bore Throats, &c.
These maladies are of so serious and dangerous a nature, the Ointment would not be recommended unless the Proprietor was sure of its effect. It will cure when every other means have failed, if applied immediately, and for the relief of all complaints of the throat, the Pills should be taken at the same time. Glandular swellings or wheezing will be promptly removed by rubbing in this unguent. Mothers should rub it into the chest of their infants whenever there is any hoarseness, tightness, or other affection of breathing.
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts.—Old Wounds, Sores, and Ulcers.
It is convincing, by its healing, soothing, and cooling qualities, that it is the best ointment for all ulcers, sores, or wounds, deprives the body of strength, and ends it for the duties of life; but it is no less wonderful to watch the effect of Holloway's Healing Ointment when used in the following complaints: Piles, if used according to the printed directions, and assisted by appropriate doses of the Pills. The pain, inflammation, and other morbid manifestations, soon disappear from the system, and health and strength return. The treatment creates no scald, and therefore makes its cures complete. ap3
Gout and Rheumatism.
Will be cured with the greatest certainty if large quantities of the Ointment be well worked into the complaining parts. The treatment must be persevering; follow the directions, and daily assisted by powerful doses of Holloway's Pills. The essence of these diseases lies in the blood which has floating through each vessel the pungent poison which irritates and inflames every tissue it comes in contact with, and produces the hot, swollen, elastic enlargement about the joints so characteristic of gouty and rheumatic maladies.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Burns, Bunions, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Coldsores, Corns (Soft), Cancers, Contracted Joints, Stiff Joints, Sore Heads, Fistulas, Gout, Glandular Swellings, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Scalds, Sore Nipples, Scurvy, Sore Throats, Ulcers, Yaws.
Sold at the Establishment of Professor HOLLOWAY, 244, Strand (near Temple Bar) London; also by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicines throughout the United States, at the following prices:—1s. 6d., 2s., 4s., 6s., 22s., and 33s. each Pot.
There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.
N.B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each Pot. mson

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
Chlorodyne.
CHOLERA, DYSENTERY, DIARRHŒA, CRAMP, AGUE, FEVER, RHEUMATISM, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, COUGH, &c.
ALL PAIN, VOMITING AND DISTRESS is eased in a few minutes after taking a dose of that wonderful SEDATIVE ANODYNE and ANTISPASMODIC remedy, CHLORODYNE, discovered by Dr J Collis Browne M.R.C.S.L., (ex-Army Medical Staff,) the recipe of which was confided solely to Davenport, 33 Great Russell street, Bloomsbury square, London (Pharmaceutical Chemist), and received testimony of civil, hospital, military and naval practitioners pronounced INVALUABLE. It relieves pain of any kind, soothes the restlessness of fever, and imparts the most refreshing sleep, without producing or leaving any of the alleged effects of opium.
From W. Vesalius Pettigrew, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S., Emeritus Professor Lecturer upon Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine: "I have used it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhœa and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."
Dr. Gibbon, Army Medical Staff, Calcutta: "Two doses completely cured me of Diarrhœa."
From C. V. Kidout, Esq., Surgeon, Lytham: "As an antispasmodic in severe Diarrhœa and as an antiparalytic in Colic and Cramps in the Abdomen, the relief is instantaneous."
Chlorodyne—Vice Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood on Jan. 17, pronounced "that it is clearly proved before the Court that Dr. J. Collis Brownes was the original inventor and discoverer of a remedy well known as Chlorodyne, and so highly appreciated in India, China, &c."
Extracts from the General Board of Health London, as to its efficacy in Cholera.
1st Stage of Premonitory.—In this stage the remedy acts as a charm, one dose generally relieves.
2nd Stage, or Attack of Vomiting and Purging—In this stage the remedy possesses great power, more than any other we are acquainted with, two or three doses being sufficient.
3rd Stage, or Collapse—In all cases restoring the pulse. So strongly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy, that we cannot too forcibly urge its necessity of being at hand in all cases.
From A. Montgomery, Esq., late Inspector of Hospitals, Bombay: "Chlorodyne is a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia, Asthma and Dysentery." To it I fairly owe my recovery to health after sixteen months severe suffering, and when all other medicines had failed."
Caution—Chlorodyne—In Chancery.
It was clearly proved before Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood, by affidavits from eminent hospital Physicians of London, that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's Chlorodyne. Judgment, Jan. 13, 1864. The public, therefore are cautioned against using any other than Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, as none should be trusted in sold in bottles, 2s 9d and 4s 6d, by J. T. Davenport, 33 Great Russell street, London, W. C., sole manufacturer. Obtain particularly, none genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government Stamp. ja24 1yw

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 203. WAR DEPARTMENT, Adjutant General's Office, Washington, Dec. 29, 1864.
PASSPORTS FOR PERSONS COMING FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.
The following order of the President, received from the Department of State, is promulgated for the information and government of all officers in the military service whom it may concern:
DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 17, 1864.
The President directs that, except immigrant passengers directly entering an American port by sea, no foreign subject or citizen shall be allowed to enter the United States from a foreign country without a passport. If a citizen, the passport must be from this Department, or from some United States minister or consul abroad; and if an alien, from the competent authority of his own country; the passport to be countersigned by a diplomatic agent or consul of the United States. This regulation is intended to apply especially to persons proposing to come to the United States from the neighboring British Provinces. Its observance will be strictly enforced by all officers, civil military and naval, in the service of the United States; and the State and Municipal authorities are requested to aid in its execution. It is expected, however, that no immigrant passenger, coming in manner aforesaid, will be obstructed, or any other persons who may set out on their way hither before intelligence of this regulation could reasonably be expected to reach the country from which they may have started.

LINCOLN AND JOHNSON.

The biography of a great public man is oftentimes the history of a nation. The matured life of Abraham Lincoln is the political record of the United States during the last quarter of a century. We see it in his nervous anxiety in his early career not to interfere with the question of slavery, and in his gradual adoption of abolition sentiments. "In regard to the admission of any more slave States into the Union" he says at one time "I state very frankly, I would be exceedingly sorry ever to be put in a position to pass upon the question." We see the same interweaving of the man and the nation in subsequent events—in his willingness to provide against the extension of the evil, by excluding slavery from the territories; when this issue is decided by his own election to the Presidency, and when the South secedes, we see just to what extent the nation is prepared to go, when he announces that if union can be obtained with slavery, slavery shall not be interfered with; another stage is passed and events have hurried the public mind to a more radical resolve, and Lincoln proclaims emancipation as a war measure to almost a reluctant people. A still further step has, however, yet to be reached,—the union, if it is obtained, must be cemented by the abolition of slavery—not as a temporary measure, but as a permanent obliteration of all that was foul and wrong and treason-hatching in the Republic. This is the last point in the nation's history, and to its rapid culmination we are indebted principally to that man whose life has just passed so suddenly and so mournfully away.

Above all the political thinkers America has ever produced, Abraham Lincoln is preeminently entitled to be placed in the foremost category of her "representative men" Throughout his career, whether we take it in a social or political aspect, he was the embodiment of the strength and the progress of the Republic. We see him in early life, the rough, strong lad, splitting rails and otherwise assisting his father on the farm, wielding the axe on the encumbrances of the land in the same spirit which he afterwards displayed when wielding the power of the Republic to clear the country of an undergrowth that was retarding the moral and political advancement of the nation. We see him again, in the capacity of a deck hand on a river boat; then a clerk, then a storekeeper, and so on through a number of vocations, until at length he reaches that of the law. To this profession he settled down, and by zeal and native shrewdness soon made his name known beyond his "local habitation."

Yet with all this gradual advancement, his school-boy educational experiences had been limited to a single year. His knowledge was that gleaned in intervals of leisure; but like the learning acquired generally by self-taught men was substantial and tenaciously retained. He was thrown early into politics, and pushed his way gradually up until he at length became the great opponent of Douglas for the position of Senator for Illinois. Not having a sufficient majority over his Democratic rival, the State Legislature elected Douglas. In the subsequent election for President is strangely enough happened that these two men found themselves again face to face as exponents of the same conflicting doctrines they had enunciated in the previous contest. This time, however, the battle was with the strong. The rough, awkward giant, the genial, honest, shrewd village lawyer became supreme head of one of the great powers of the world. The important trust was confided to no unworthy hands. Earnestly and truly this good man worked for his country's honor and prosperity. If in his past four trying years he ever vacillated in carrying out those great principles with which his name will be inseparably connected—if he ever gave indications of faltering in his regenerating career—it was not because he had any fears for himself or his party, or that his mind was not wholly made up, but because he was always in dread of being too far ahead of public sentiment, and thus risking the success of that measure on which we firmly believe he had set his heart. It was this caution, this waiting for the first faint sign of popular expression, that carried Lincoln and his party safely through the stormy period. He kept just sufficiently ahead of public feeling to guide it in the most effective pathways; and what else could man do with twenty millions of thinking, and diversely thinking, people—all politicians, from the boy at school to the ancient grandame who talked of Washington and the "days that tried men's souls." It is easy enough in most European countries for the vigorous mind to take hold of revolution and mould it to its will; but where every man considers himself a sovereign the task becomes more than heroic. Opinion must be consulted, and he only is the successful leader who, seeing the small cloud that portends the storm, takes in sail, or discerning in the horizon the first indication of the grateful breeze, spreads out his canvas. Lincoln was this leader—the man for the age and the man for the place.

The great honest soul of the American President has departed, but the vacancy that is created in the most important position that man can at present hold throughout the globe is speedily filled. Andrew Johnson, the tailor, the Vice President of the American Republic, succeeds him that epitomizes the fitness of the successor of the murdered Lincoln. Born in Raleigh, North Carolina, in 1808, of poor parents, Johnson was soon obliged to shift for himself. He had no education beyond what little could be picked up in the tailor's shop, yet by dint of assiduity he mastered sufficient to enable him when twenty years old, to fill the post of Alderman in the village in which he resided. He was elected to the State Legislature seven years after—in 1835, and to Congress in 1843. Ten years after he became Governor of Tennessee, a post which he filled until 1857, when he was elected to the United States Senate for the full term of six years. In 1864 he was elected Vice-President—principally, we believe, because he had proved himself a man of astonishing energy and vigor in endeavoring to educe peaceful order from treasonable chaos while military Governor of Tennessee. He would not have been well adapted to the Presidency three or even two years ago, but in the present junctures of affairs we do not think he will be found wanting in those qualities necessary to adjust difficulties. In the lives of these two men—Lincoln and Johnson—we are brought face to face, as it were, with the grandeur and greatness of the Republic. We are shown that honesty and thrift, ability and industry, can win their way to the highest posts in the land—that those qualities which we too often find in Europe in the gutter or starving in the garret are made to add to the wisdom and the power of a mighty nation. No man who feels at all for the elevation of his race can do other than rejoice at the termination of these dark days of the Republic, and the success of popular institutions under their greatest trial; and we are sure also that no sentiment which Mr. Garfield uttered yesterday will meet with a warmer response than that hope that the death of Abraham Lincoln would be the last great sacrifice required to be borne by the people of the United States.

BIRTHS.

At Douglas on the 13th instant, the wife of Capt. Dodge, of a daughter.

THE FIRST DESPATCH.—By the arrival of the steamer Enterprise yesterday morning we were placed in possession of an extra of the N. P. Times, containing the first despatch received in New Westminster by wire from Seattle. No mention is made in our exchanges of the completion of the line, but we presume it must now be in working order. The despatches are in substance the same as appeared in the COLONIST of yesterday; we have, however, the following additional paragraph relating to the murder of the President and the escape of the assassin, which will be read with interest:—" Miss Harris, who was in the President's box at the time of the assassination, says before the commission of the foul deed, the assassin came to the door of the box, and looked in, and took a survey of the different positions of its occupants. It was thought at the time it was either a mistake or a piece of impertinence. The circumstance attracted no particular attention, but upon his entering the box again, Major Rathburn asked the intruder his business, when he rushed past him without making a reply, pleoing the pistol close to the President's head, actually in contact with it, and fired. Then springing upon the cushioned balustrade, he made a backward plunge with his knife at Mr. Lincoln Major Rathburn sprang forward to protect the President, and received a stab in the arm. The murderer then jumped on the stage and effected his escape. Mrs. Lincoln saw the form of the person go down from the box, she thought Mr. Lincoln had been cut looking for him on the floor, and barely saw the person jump to the stage when all was near. She turned her eyes towards the box, and seeing his head drooped forward upon his breast, all at once realized what had transpired. From the moment the President was shot to the time of his death he was insensible, exhibiting no signs of pain; the blood troubled his breathing, often making it exceedingly difficult.

THE ONE-LEGGED OBJECTS TO "DARE."—Donato, the famous one-legged dancer, has cancelled his engagement with the proprietors of the Alcazar, because he would have been obliged to appear in plain evening dress, the authorities in Paris not allowing a performer to figure in costume at a cafe chantant. Dancing in public on one leg in the evening dress of private life, would certainly be a difficult undertaking, and one is not surprised that Donato should shrink from such an ordeal before a Parisian audience.

NEW STAGE DIABLERIE.—A new sensation in theatricals—something in the ghost style, only more so—is about to be introduced in New York. The novelty comes from London, and is said to be a something which renders an actor visible or invisible at will, before an audience, and not only renders him invisible, but enables another actor to invisibly take his place and become visible as his substitute. It is being employed in London at present, with great success, especially in pantomime.

GOLD AT COWICHAN.—A party of miners are at present prospecting on the Koksilah river in Cowichan district, where good prospects were found last fall, but too late in the year for a full examination. Several of the parties who prospected the river last season are making preparations to resume operations. The Koksilah leads in the same direction as the Gordon and Leech and coarse gold similar to that obtained on these streams was found there in several places.

SALE OF LAND FOR TAXES.—The lands advertised in the COLONIST to be sold for arrears of taxes will be put up at auction by Daniel Scott & Co. on Monday next. The sale will exhibit rather a novel feature in auctions, the bids running down instead of up. For instance, on a lot on which the taxes amount to $50, A will pay the arrears for the whole lot, B will pay them for half the lot, C for ten feet of it, &c., &c. There are a large number of lots to be sold.

THE STEAMER CALEDONIA had her boilers tested by the Government inspector at New Westminster on Tuesday last. Steam was raised to a pressure of 150 lbs. under which the boilers were pronounced safe, and a certificate accordingly granted. The Caledonia went up the river with 90 lbs. steam and worked most satisfactorily. She sails again for New Westminster to-day at 2 o'clock.

THE ALEXANDRA SEIZED.—By private advices we learn that the steamer Alexandra was seized at New Westminster for wages, but released on bonds. A subsequent report was current just before the Caledonia sailed that she had again been seized on a requisition from the Governor of Washington Territory—doubtless untrue.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—The national holiday is approaching, and we are glad to see that a movement is already on foot to celebrate the day by races and other amusements. A preliminary meeting is called for Saturday evening next, at the "Grotto," to take steps to get up a suitable demonstration.

THE NEW HYDRANT on the corner of Government and Fort streets was tested by the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department yesterday, with very satisfactory results, a stream of water being thrown a distance of 45 feet through a 40 foot hose.

DEBATING CLASS—This evening a Reading will be given by Mr. H. Gillard from Longfellow's poems. Also Recitations at the close of the reading.

THE oil painting by Messrs. Hind and Tomlinson which we described yesterday, is now on view at the Bookstore of Messrs. Waitt & Co., Government street.

BILL POSTPONED—Daniel Scott's sale of clothing was postponed yesterday till Tuesday next, on account of the holiday.

"Beating Biscuits," to aid in the diminution of the body, is the latest novelty advertised in London.

GOVERNMENT NOTICE—The Gazette of yesterday publishes a list with particulars of deeds of conveyance by the Hud-on Bay Co. received at the Land Office, and notifies that claimants will be required to deliver up their instalment receipts, pay cost of stamp and to prove their right to the satisfaction of the Government. The following names appear on the list: John Lemon, R. Finlayson, Nicha. Anger, Jean B. Jollibois, Jas. Yates, Wm Foot, J. S. Helmcken, Hy Simpson, Jno Russell, Sir Jas. Douglas, Jas. Wilson, Robt. J. Skinner, [deceased], Geo. McKenzie. His Excellency has appointed Thos. Trounce and William Fisher road commissioners for Esquimalt Town District. The Treasurer gives notice that the quarterly licenses commencing 21st April, 1865, are payable at the Treasury on Friday next. Mr. J. T Pidwell is appointed ex officio Road Commissioner for the Districts of Victoria, Esquimalt Town, Esquimalt, Cowichan and Nanaimo, and to be road commissioners for the district of Nanaimo Messrs. W. H. Franklyn, J. P., G. S. Nicol, J. P., P. Sabiston and Chas. York.

A French paper states that "a great English countess, whose name will very shortly be before the Divorce Court, has arrived at Paris, having eloped with her coach man."

COMMEMORATION OF THE DEATH OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Victoria yesterday mourned the untimely death of Abraham Lincoln. Citizens of every nationality joined with Americans in rendering homage to the memory of a great and good man. Pursuant to a desire expressed in the report of the committee of American residents the day was observed not only by Americans but by the people generally as a holyday. The Government offices and all places of business were closed, and many shops, stores and buildings were draped in mourning. Every tenement possessing a flag-post, from the Government buildings at James Bay to the bomb cot cabin, floated its flag at half-mast, as also did Her Majesty's ships Cameleon, Forward and Grappler, displaying the American flag at their main. The whole community evidently felt that the cause of humanity had sustained an irreparable loss.

Long before the appointed time for Mr. Garfield's address the theatre began to fill with ladies and gentlemen, and at three o'clock the building was crowded to its utmost capacity. Governor Kennedy, Mrs. Kennedy, the Misses Kennedy, and Henry Wakeford, Esq., occupied their usual box, and T. L. Wood, Esq., Attorney-General, and family, with others, occupied another box.

On the platform we observed the following gentlemen:—Allen Francis, U. S. Consul; A. H. Guild, P. M. Beckus, James Gamble, D. A. Edgar, J. P. Cooch, F. Tarbell, G. Sutro, S. N. Moody, Julius Loewl, Bowman, Sportborg, S. Lichtenstain, J. P. Cranford, the Mayor, Rev. C. T. Woods, C. B. Young, Dr. Tolmie, M.L.A., Robt. Burnaby, M.L.A., R. Finlayson, M.L.C., D. B. Ring, J. S. Drummond, J. Banks and many others, also several ladies.

The theatre had been appropriately hung in crape, black velvet and other emblems of mourning, under the superintendence of Mr. R. Lewis.

At three o'clock the chairman, Mr. Francis, introduced Mr Garfield to the audience with the following remarks:

Countrymen and Friends.—A few days ago intelligence was received which rejoiced our hearts in the prospects of a termination of our country's troubles. That news thrilled our hearts with joy, receiving a cordial response from all nationalities in Victoria. To-day our rejoicings are turned to mourning—our hopes to silent fear and grief. Our country to-day mourns the loss of its Chief. Freedom has lost her champion—Human Rights one of its greatest leaders, and Liberty one of her ablest defenders. For more than thirty years I have known Abraham Lincoln. I have known him as a modest, diffident, unaspiring young man, laboring and struggling with his own hands and intellect to sustain the wants of life. I have stood by him and with him in all his political struggles. He was an admirer and follower of the great and immortal statesman Henry Clay. I have known him as a husband, father, neighbor and friend "None knew him but to love; none named him but to praise." He was the only man I ever knew who had not a personal enemy. Politically, he had many, but even these always conceded to him honesty of conviction and of purpose. I have heard the eloquent and lame ted Douglas, with whom he had many unsuccessful political contests, say that Abraham Lincoln was the only man in the political arena whom he feared; that he was too honest and too candid ever to be a successful politician. I need say no more. Our country's history will do justice to his services, his memory, and his virtues. Ladies and gentlemen, I have the honor of presenting to you the Hon. M. Garfield, of Washington Territory.

Mr. Garfield then stepped forward and addressed the vast audience with his accustomed ability and eloquence. The remarks of the speaker were listened to with profound attention. In giving a synopsis of the oration to suit our space, we feel that we shall necessarily be compelled to detract much from its beauties and merits. Mr. Garfield expressed the regret he felt at having to address so large a concourse of persons without proper preparation. They had met to mourn the loss of a great man. The chief of a great nation who, called upon to preside over the destinies of a people under circumstances the most trying, had fallen before the full harvest of his labours had been gathered in. He thanked the numerous assemblage of citizens of various nations met here upon a foreign shore to do honor to a man whose every thought and effort was on behalf of rational liberty (applause). A nation weeps on behalf of its Chief Magistrate, and the echoes of its sorrow reverberate through the world and vibrate the chords of every heart. He had fallen, and they could now pause to contemplate his great life and the great events and results of his public career. He required no funeral ceremony, he needed no monument. The pageantry of death and the sculptured marble could add no element of perpetuity to his fame. With his own hand he had carved an obelisk more imperishable than stone, a monument more brilliant than gold. He had laid the foundations of that monument deep and strong in the hearts and affections of his countrymen. By his public acts alone he had piled stone upon stone until the pinnacle had reached mid-Heaven and leaping to the summit he stood there before the world the embodiment of rational universal liberty. (Applause.) His life and career were strong illustrations of the effect of free institutions upon the individual citizen so often observed in England and America. Born in the very humblest walks of life and upon the verge of civilization and reared among the hardy pioneers of the West, where the progress of the white man invaded the haunt of the savage and wild beast, with limited means for social or intellectual culture, he had advanced step by step through different grades until he had been twice elected Chief Magistrate of the American nation by the voluntary suffrages of a free people—the highest honor that could be conferred on him. All men started from the same level. Lincoln was elected President in 1860—inaugurated March 4th, and within 90 days the first gun boomed on Sumter and one of the greatest rebellions the world ever witnessed was inaugurated. In the face of all the difficulties that beset his path he firmly, consistently, and boldly took a stand on behalf of the preservation of the Union, that the freedom cemented by the blood of their ancestors should remain intact and treason and rebellion should not obtain a foothold within its borders. Called upon to preside over a great nation at a time of its great peril and suffering, the wisdom of his counsels, the firmness of his positions, and his inflexible perseverance had nearly vanquished the public enemy and silenced the opposition when, in the midst of his labor and realisation of his hopes, he was struck down by the hand of the assassin. The private virtues of Mr. Lincoln were no less solid then his public career had been brilliant. As a husband, father, neighbor, and friend the tongue of scandal had never breathed a word of reproach against him. (Applause.) His justice, generosity, and integrity had long since passed into a proverb in the community where he lived. He had fallen. A great wrong had been committed against his country, and the nation mourned in sackcloth and ashes in its humiliation. The proud boast of America had been that while rulers and despots in other lands were compelled to surround themselves with a hireling soldiery, their Chief Magistrate had moved through life an exalted but private citizen, enshrined in the hearts, and secure in the midst of the people who had placed him in that high position, and by whose universal sentiment he was sustained; but that boast was gone, and it could no longer be said that the person of the President of the United States of America was sacred, and that he needed no body guard. He had fallen, and the altar of reconciliation had been sprinkled with the best blood of America. The act would be deplored North and South. It would add thousands to the strength of the North and detract thousands from the South (applause), and he called upon his fellow countrymen here and elsewhere, to unite with him in their present necessity before High Heaven, and over the bleeding corpse of their murdered Chief Magistrate to solemnly swear, that neither by word, deed, or vote would they sustain, countenance, or favor the present rebellion or the perpetrators of this great crime, and that all that they have, and all that they are, shall be devoted to their country until rebellion shall be crushed out—treason cease to the land and a lasting peace be obtained, wherein the lives and property of all Americans and foreigners who visit their shores shall be equally respected (Loud applause). The speaker here dilated at some length upon the question of slavery; its origin, progress, nature, attendant evils and its inevitable results were clearly and ably portrayed. Its gradual emancipation in some of the Northern States was described, also the effect of the discovery of the Cotton Gin when the cultivation of that article became so profitable that an additional impetus was given to the system in those States where it could be produced and the shackles of slavery were there rivetted with tenfold force. The ground taken by the speaker was that slavery was incompatible with a voluntary Government under which all must of necessity become free. The legal title to the bond servant being gone, equity gave none. This war with all its attendant horrors was the penalty of that unhallowed system. Nations like individuals must suffer, and he looked upon Mr Lincoln's death as the crowning calamity. Was their cup of misery yet full? and would the hand of retributive justice be stayed? Had the blood of white men, even led by the sacrifice of the Chief Magistrate, yet atoned for the transgression of God's law of which his country had been guilty for the last 70 years? Then Abraham Lincoln had not died in vain, and they might indulge in the hope that the sins of the country had now been sufficiently expiated, and peace and that happiness would again take their place in the land.

Mr. Garfield then read the following resolutions, and moved their adoption, which was carried unanimously.

Whereas, it has pleased the Almighty Ruler of the Universe, in the all-wise dispensation of His Providence, to afflict the people of the United States by permitting Abraham Lincoln, their Chief Magistrate, to be stricken down in the prime of life and in the midst of usefulness by the hand of the assassin;

And whereas, the intelligence of this great calamity, not only to our country, but to the cause of Truth and Humanity throughout the world, has been received by us with feelings of the most profound sorrow, we deem this hour of our country's bereavement a fit and proper occasion to express the deep sympathy we feel for her affliction, as well as the grief which afflicts our hearts at this sudden and lamentable event. But we shall we give expression to our sorrow, in what words shall we speak of the mighty dead who has fallen, or bewail his loss? To us, on these distant shores, he was not only the Chief Magistrate of our beloved country, but the embodiment and representative of the principles we cherish, and which we had hoped, through him, to see carried out and established.

Called to preside over the destinies of our country at the most critical period of its history, and all inexperienced as he was to the administration of Government, more doubted his ability to cope with the mighty difficulties and dangers which encompassed the nation. Questions the most momentous and altogether new in this country's history were presented, and upon their solution depended not only its welfare, but its existence as a nation. To meet these successfully required the greatest wisdom, firmness and moderation. But all who holds in the hollow of His hand the destinies of nations mistakes not His agents in the accomplishment of His vast designs; and, therefore Abraham Lincoln was found to possess the necessary qualifications to conduct his country through the trying ordeal to which she has been subjected—to preserve the stability of the Government, and at the same time vindicate the correctness of the principles upon which it was founded. He brought to the discharge of his great and arduous duties a heart so honest and sincere, a wisdom so practical and sound, and a moral courage so steady and unwavering, as to eminently fit him for his exalted position. But his most distinguished trait was his humanity,—humanity in its largest sense. His was the heart to feel that every man was his brother. Surely, in the great day of reckoning his name will be found "foremost in the Book of Life, as one who loved his fellow-man."

But time will not permit us further to allude to his deeds and virtues. His work was accomplished, and he has passed from his labors, and however much we deplore his loss, we can but bow to all humility to the flat of Him, who

> Deep in unfathomable mines
> Of never-failing skill,
> Treasures up His vast designs,
> And works His sovereign will.

We, therefore, the citizens of the United States, residing in Victoria, Vancouver Island, for the purpose of expressing our sense of our country's loss, have Resolved—First—That while humbly bowing to the decrees of an All-wise Providence, which has permitted our beloved country to be afflicted by the death of its Chief Magistrate, at a period so momentous in its history, our hearts are filled with the deepest grief, and with our country we mourn in its affliction.

Resolved—Second—That in the death of Abraham Lincoln—the wise, the noble, the good—the the nation has suffered a great and irreparable loss, and the kindly nature of the departed President has enshrined his name deeply in the affections of his afflicted countrymen, who feel that Liberty wept when Lincoln fell.

Resolved—Third—That we feel the keenest sorrow for the bereaved widow and family of the deceased President, and tender to them our warmest sympathy in their great distress.

Resolved—Fourth—That we bow in humble submission to the inscrutable decrees of Almighty God, and invoke His blessings upon William H. Seward, Secretary of State of the United States of America, and we fervently hope that he may be speedily restored to his wonted health and faculties, and that our country may long continue to enjoy the benefits of his known wisdom and ability.

At the termination of the address, Mr. Garfield was loudly applauded.

The Chairman then briefly thanked the audience for their attention, and closed the proceedings.

MISS BATEMAN AS "JULIA."—On the 30th January Miss Bateman appeared at the Adelphi Theatre, London, as Julia, in the "Hunchback." All the papers speak of her performance in the highest terms. The Times says: "Miss Bateman having played no other character than Leah, in the drama of that name, during her brilliant career in London and the provinces, the announcement that she would perform Julia, in the "Hunchback," filled the Adelphi Theatre last night with a most expectant audience. For the present it is sufficient to say that the ordeal was triumphantly passed, and that those who hesitated during the first act rose to acclamation at the fourth. The young lady had to prove that she is not a one part actress, and her proof has more than surpassed all expectations."

"That cat has got a cold," said a friend to Jones, pointing to a domestic favorite. "Yes," Jones replied, "the poor thing is subject to catarrh."

The steamer Enterprise arrived yesterday morning from New Westminster bringing a few passengers. She sustained some injury by striking a rock near Plumper Pass.

The steamer Caledonia arrived yesterday afternoon with six passengers.

[From the Columbian.]

DEPARTURE OF THE EXPLORATION EXPEDITION—The Reliance carried off Mr. Orr and party on Saturday. As we intimated some time ago, Mr. Orr, with a party of ten picked men, goes out for the purpose of exploring the country north and east of the Big Bend of Columbia River and Shuswap Lake. The public will await with deep interest the result of this expedition, which will doubtless be made known from time to time through the regular official channels. We understand that members of the party will not be at liberty to correspond with newspapers, or otherwise become the medium of giving publicity to the proceedings of the expedition. This is, we are disposed to think wise policy, and may prevent the circulation of conflicting and unreliable statements.

THE YALE LYTTON ROAD OPEN—The Express which came down on Friday night by the Reliance brought a letter to the Government from Mr. Spence, Superintendent of the above road, announcing that it would be open for waggons from Yale to Clinton on Saturday the 15th, and that he had notified teamsters in Yale, Lytton and Clinton to that effect. Mr Spence, or perhaps we should say the Government, has displayed very great and praiseworthy vigor in opening the road in question. As many as 100 men have been at work upon it; but Mr. Spence states his intention of reducing the number to 30 on Saturday. It has doubtless cost a good many dollars; but it would be difficult to estimate the importance of the work in the present condition of the country, and after so protracted a winter as that through which we have just passed.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS for week ending Saturday 15th April, 1865:—£3,445.

THE RELIANCE.—The steamer Reliance left on Saturday with thirty to thirty-five tons of freight and about one hundred passengers. Amongst the passengers we noticed Mr. Townsend and Mr. Orr—the former going up to the Mouth of Quesnelle as Manager of the Bank of British Columbia, and the latter with the Exploring Expedition.—*N. THE LONDON TIMES ON THE AMERICAN SITUATION.

[From the London Times of 17th February.]

After one wistful glance at the peace which, it would almost seem, is not to be in our time, the Americans have flung themselves once more into the ghastly duel of which we can only find the like in a nightmare, or in the personal encounters one hears of in their own half-settled borders. We have to recall the not uncommon case of two combatants, without either the power or the wish to escape, inflicting the most horrid injuries one on the other, and indifferent to their own wounds so long as they had a chance of striking the last fatal blow. From the two ships lashed together as if in mockery of the old forced and ill assorted union, the American eye now passes to many a point of presumed weakness in the enemy's defences, to open port, and deep inlet, and rapid river, and mountain range, and broad valley, wherever the vast continent may haply be penetrated. Every day it hopes to read the sweet tidings of devastation and massacre in places whose very names were sacred but the other day, and whose flourishing statistics were taught to children in the State schools. So utterly is the instinct of a whole race changed, we may say in a day, and the very spirit of self immolation infused into the vast multitude just before plethoric with wealth, saturated with enjoyment, and intoxicated with vanity. Thus far there is not the least sign of any real movement in the direction of peace, in two successive and protracted interviews. So long as one side insists upon a union as thorough as that which the sword has divided, and the other insists upon thorough independence — sweetened possibly, though we do not know this, by promises of political co-operation—there can be no peace. According to the old superstition, the rust of the spear alone can heal the wound which the point has made. Neither of the belligerents is now master of his actions. He is the victim of a terrible though self-imposed necessity, which shows how a man may be a slave without the excuse, the honor and comfort of a master—a slave to a base passion, a slave to a horrid purpose, a slave to a fearful movement that can never be arrested, however wantonly set going. It is the white man who must now finish his task. It lies before him a huge pile, of unknown and still increasing bulk. Upon this he has to toil incessantly under a burning sun, and every element taunting its worst spite on body and soul. He has to hack and to hew, to beat and to tear—to strain every sinew, rack every joint and exhaust every nerve. Bleeding at every vein and every pore, aching, withered and prostrate to the last limit of consciousness, he has to go on, and onward still, upon a labor inexhaustible and ever self-reneding. But it is a work of blood and fire. It is unmake all he has made, to depopulate and blacken the paradise it was his glory to have created. This is his slavery. He cannot work his own deliverance, and there is none—so at least he feels in his desperation—to buy him out of it.

To be the slave of an idea is more or less the fate of individuals and communities. Men cannot indulge themselves in golden anticipations as to the future without finding themselves before very long occupying the place rather of the captive than of the victor in their own triumphal car. The dream of a world-wide Confederation, united only for convenience, defence and endless aggression, had taken, as it is now found, too strong a hold on the American mind. It had grown up into the intensity and scarcely responsible form of a monomania. It had become a new law of justice and truth, that all nations were to bow to, although ever so harshly propounded. We may now afford to pity a mental possession than which none had more excuse, but which surpassed all example. In every age there have been Powers which could not be content with their old limits, or even the older and more modest forms of political association, and which accordingly aimed to conquer the world or a continent—to establish a new system, or impose new principles of Government. They have all run through more changes than their authors ever expected, and much more rapidly. The two greatest and most enduring notions of antiquity have left grand traditions of art, science and religion, but political elements of dissolution rather than union. The Capitol of Washington may not disdain to learn something of the fortunes of that other Capital on the Tiber. That State was in succession a Monarchy, an aristocratic Republic, a Triumvirate, an Empire; first aggressive, then standing on the defensive; then two Empires; then the arena of universal and continual warfare by migratory races; then a spiritual dominion, then two spiritual dominions; then a centre of religious authority, recognized with severe limitations and immense exceptions by some States of Western Europe and some large communities in the rest of the world. The Government which represents the United States of course thinks its foundations deeper in moral truth and human necessity than Rome. It starts with a new continent, in which there is no considerable rival. The natural secession of new colonies and dependencies from the parent State, and the natural rejection of Old World trammels, which has produced the independent communities of America, is only the first step, so it seems, to their confederation. Everything favors the presumption that America has a destiny beyond the ken of worn out loyalties and exploded bigotries. We cannot wonder, we ought rather to admire, that this new family of mankind, passing over the flood, and resting on its own sacred mount, high and dry from Old World violences and corruptions, should indulge in such a dream, so comprehensive and so glorious and so large. We admire, but envy not. It is dream-land, and no more. The dreamers walk as in a trance—political somnambulists—bound by their own spell, serving a tyrant of their own invention, and running the course of inevitable ruin. The great machine tears along, and, though the work of their own hands, they cannot stop it, or even mitigate its fearful speed. It was made to distance all, and crush all, besides themselves; but mankind looks on aghast, and sees its makers the victims.

It is the immense scale of this fatal propensation that cuts off remedy and escape. The idol of Americans worship embraces a continent—nay, a world; it includes all the future; it claims to subjugate the entire realm of human thought. It is treason and heresy to stop short of the whole visible and speculative sphere. The world is to be regenerated on this new model—the New World, then the Old. Accordingly, the present holders of this august destiny can give up nothing. It was decapitation in China to doubt that the Emperor was brother to the Sun and Moon, and it is political death in America to doubt that all nations will receive the law from Washington, annex themselves to its mild rule, and bow to its easy yoke. In the Old World—which has been battled, and buffeted, and beaten by hard facts, if not into wisdom, at least into submission,—when a conqueror is defeated he gives up his conquest; when a State cannot fight the world, it says so and gives in. By the same rule, when a private man has played for great stakes and lost he sits down and makes the best of it. He knows that it is possible to exist without a large fortune, without a high position, without a dignified employment, without many friends, without an acre of land, without even a house to call his own. He congratulates himself if he has not lost honor and sunk into a caste below his habits and natural instincts. The most overweening and overstepping ambition may and by accommodating itself to a very humble place and finding happiness in self-respect and self-content. There are few, indeed, that have not had to surrender a good deal of their early day-dreams. The American cannot do this. The dream, which others on this side the Atlantic can better describe in all its grandeur, is too strong a reality for him. Having worshipped it and obeyed it—having laid on its side all he held dear, he is now its humble slave. He must do as it bids him, and go through blood and flames to enforce its dire behests. No partial sacrifice will appease it. All or nothing he asked for: all or nothing it demands at his hands. So long as that idol stands on its pedestal, the war must rage on; and we see no symptom of its early overthrow.

THEIR LIKE PEARLS AND BREATH OF SWEETNESS obtained by the use of that popular Dentifrice, Fragrant "Sozodont," a composition of the choicest and purest ingredients, the three most important requisites, cleanliness, efficacy and convenience being present in the highest possible degree of perfection. It removes all disagreeable odors, scurf and tartarous adhesions, insuring a pearl like whiteness to the teeth; gives tone to the breath and a cool delicate aromatic fragrance to the mouth, which makes it really a toilet luxury.

Sold by Druggists everywhere at 75 cents per bottle.

A CARD.

G. W. COOK, Dentist, returns his sincere thanks to the citizens of Victoria for the liberal patronage he has received from them for the last three years, and would respectfully inform them that he intends leaving about the 25th April, and all who desire first class work done at New York prices should call immediately. FRENCH LANGUAGE. — MONS. B. DEFFIS (Graduate of the Académie de Paris) intends opening a new class in French for beginners on the 29th instant, at 7 o'clock in the evening. Little need be said at the present day of the importance of a knowledge of the French language. It is the key to immense treasures in literature and science; the medium of communication in European diplomacy, and is confessedly an indispensable accomplishment of the modern traveler, and the man of liberal education. Address—Trounce Alley.

NOTICE TO MINERS—Every one who is going to Cariboo or Kootenay where they cannot apply to an experienced dental Surgeon whenever they require his assistance should have their teeth examined and put in order before leaving Victoria. Mr. F. W CAVE, Surgeon Dentist, Trounce Alley, Government street, is the most qualified person they can apply to, and his charges for filling, drawing, and scaling teeth, or for fitting artificial teeth singly or in set, are as moderate as those usually made in the large cities of England and the East.

BENSON'S WATCHES & CLOCKS

WATCH AND CLOCK MAKER, BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT, TO HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

Opinions of the London Press upon Benson's Great Clock and Watches in the Exhibition, 1862

"As a sample of English clock-work on a large scale this work of art may take rank with any thing of the kind that have ever been seen in this country. No Chronometer, south, or other, with keys, pipes, or chronometer, ever equalled machanism.—Times, June 11, 1862.
